Japan Tells Powers It May Be Forced To Occupy Peiping

If Chinese Extend Operations Tokyo Leaders Say Japanese Forces May Also Move to Capture Tientsin

JEHOL INVADERS TELL OF GAINS

Canadian Press
Tokio, Feb. 22.—Great Britain and other governments which maintain military forces and "spheres of interest" in the Peiping-Tientsin area, will be informed Japan may be "compelled" to extend military operations to those cities.

The Foreign Office to-day announced the ambassadors of the principal powers would be told the Japanese army had no intention of carrying its campaign in Jehol province south of the Great Wall of China unless Chinese reprisals should force such action.

TROUSERS PROTEST AT BATTLE CREEK

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 22.—Some of the men of Battle Creek will parade March 3 in protest against wearing of trousers by women. A statement issued by the men said: "Women have been wearing the trousers in the house too long. Now they've started wearing them on the streets. We formally protest."

Every marcher will wear a skirt, and banners will display the men's threat to adopt skirts permanently unless the women relent.

SOVIET LEADERS WATCH JAPAN

Associated Press

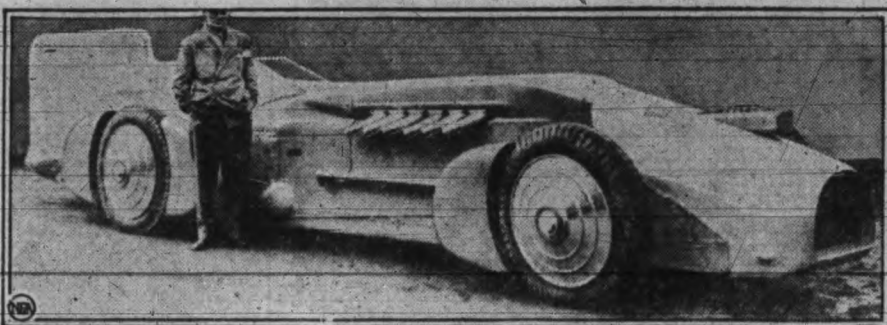

Moscow, Feb. 22.—Klement E. Voroshilov, Soviet War Commissar, speaking at the concluding session of the collective farm congress here declared: "The Far Eastern situation continues to demand our vigilance."

The congress closed last Sunday and the speech was released to-day.

"Current relations with Japan are ostensibly normal," M. Voroshilov said, "yet certain Japanese politicians and militarists declare the possibility and even necessity of war against the Soviet Union."

Japan's recent rejection of Soviet proposals for a non-aggression pact has created a tense situation here.

PUT CAMPAIGN IN ALL HOMES

Radio and Mail Carriers Aid Newspaper Publicity For Job Pledges

Hundred Volunteer Workers Yet Required to Complete Organization

The Greater Victoria Emergency Employment campaign this morning opened a programme of six brief radio addresses over CFCT, designed to prepare cordial receptions for the voluntary canvassers who will take the field next Tuesday. Alfred Carmichael, campaign manager, in a five-minute address to housewives, requested them to make lists of improvements to their homes and articles of furniture which might be replaced, repaired or renovated. Such lists, he suggested, would be of great value in determining the manner in which each household could support the campaign, by profitably putting money in circulation and so adding to the volume of employment.

This evening at 8 o'clock Mrs. C. Spottford will give the first radio address of a series to be given nightly. Miss North Jones will be the vocal artist for the programme, which will require fifteen minutes.

Volunteers needed
To date 400 volunteers have been enlisted for the canvassing campaign to open on Tuesday, but the objective of at least 500 workers must be attained if the allotment of calls is to be held down to twenty for each worker. While many women are enrolling for the campaign, most of the workers are men.

WELFARE GRANT CUTS FEARED

More Organizations Slated to Suffer This Year Under Economy Plan

Others Will Likely Have Entire Grants Eliminated; Some Anxiety

Whether their grants will be completely wiped out or drastically cut seems as one of the outstanding matters of importance for scores of organizations in British Columbia whose eyes are turned to the session of the British Columbia Legislature which opens to-morrow.

Announcements of Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, that the 1931 expenditure of $30,000,000 is to be cut to $22,000,000 this year has given rise to considerable anxiety among a variety of organizations.

COAL PROBLEM UNDER REVIEW

Victoria Dealers Explain Scottish Imports to Nanaimo Council

Say Island Coal Best But Agency Refused Most Victoria Firms

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, Feb. 22.—Victorians want to buy Nanaimo coal and are sympathetic to the distressed conditions of miners, but solution of the problem lies with Canadian Collieries Ltd., declared Alderman Todd, head of a delegation of Victoria coal dealers, who yesterday evening discussed reasons for importation of British and Alberta coal at an interview with the city council.

Alderman Todd referred to the Nanaimo Council's resolution of protest sent to the Victoria City Council. The resolution was received and filed, he said, because Victoria could not say to Britain they did not want their coal, as they were seeking British markets for local commodities.

Only six of twenty-four dealers in Victoria were allowed to handle Island coal and the collieries were to blame, for importation of thousands of tons of coal from Alberta and other mines, he claimed.

Dealers naturally pushed the sale of coal from which they derived most profit. At present they had to purchase Island coal from favored dealers, with only a sixty-cent margin of profit, being allowed only $1.50 a ton, from which they had to pay hauling and overhead.

Alderman Todd said the Chamber of Commerce had considered asking the Canadian Collieries to throw the situation open. The six authorized dealers had opposed, and the resolution was not carried.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 22.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, famous British race car driver, to-day cracked the world automobile speed record wide open in thrilling, breath-taking dashes over the sands of the beach speedway here.

In two blistering runs over the hard packed sand, the intrepid forty-eight-year-old driver attained the astounding speed of 272.108 miles an hour over an officially measured mile course for a new land speed record.

ONE-ARM CAR WORLD RECORD

Sir Malcolm Campbell Drove While One Arm Sprained

Associated Press

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 22.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, who to-day established a new world automobile speed record of more than 272 miles an hour here, said afterward he had "the worst ride I ever had in my life."

Suffering from an arm sprain, received last week in making repairs to his powerful Bluebird racing car, the intrepid driver said he had been forced to drive at his astounding speed to-day with only one hand.

"The beach was so rough," he said, "that on several occasions I thought I was gone. If I had not been able to control the car so magnificently, I should have landed either in the sand dunes or in the ocean."

AT 330 AN HOUR
On my first run, my tachometer or engine speed indicator showed I was doing 330 miles an hour, but the course was so rough, my wheels were spinning almost constantly, so my actual forward speed was greatly reduced.

"I did not encounter any mist on my windshield as I had expected, but the visibility was very bad. First I was heading for the sand dunes and the next instant I was heading for the sea. The car was snaking all over the course."

Cut in Government Grants and New Charges Big Factor in Civic Budget

Loss to Victoria Last Year $78,000; Municipal Union to Fight More Cuts

Faced with a direct intimation from the Minister of Finance that Provincial Government grants to municipalities will undergo another drastic revision this year, civic authorities consider their financial relationships with the government one of their most serious problems.

In preparation of the 1933 budget, spirited resistance to the government's move to make further slashes will be forthcoming from the Union of B.C. Municipalities at its annual session here next week, with all municipal leaders combining to fight the point.

VICTORIA LOSSES HEAVILY
Cities have generally suffered to a greater extent than rural municipalities from the cuts and when City Hall officials took stock of the situation this morning, it was revealed the city had taken on an additional burden of nearly $78,000 last year through reductions in the grants and new charges for local services.

This was partly due, it was said, to the fact that the city had been forced to pay for the cost of the 1932-33 fiscal year.

This morning's play was featured by the defeat of Gordon Miller, Qualicum Beach, at the hands of A. H. Forbes at the nineteenth hole. Money turned in the best card in the eighteen-hole qualifying round Monday, touring the eighteen holes in 70, two strokes over par.

"Ollie" Corbett, medal winner, continued in the running, by virtue of his 2 and 1 victory over F. Wilkinson, Vancouver.

Man Who Acclaims M.P. Denouncing Section 98 of Criminal Code Escapes; House Police on Alert Now

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—The Commons guards are on the alert to eject from the public galleries all spectators who caused disturbances. They are prepared to act quickly as the result of a minor commotion in the galleries during debate on a private member's resolution to repeal the famous section 98 of the Criminal Code, dealing with seditious and unlawful assemblies.

"Give it to them, That's the stuff," exclaimed a young man in the north gallery yesterday evening when William Irvine, U.F.A. Wetsaskwin, was attacking section 98 as archaic, drastic and tempered to breed disrespect for law and order.

A guard rushed to the young man's chair, ordering him to cease his open comments and to leave speech-making to the members below. Repeating his verbal applause and passing a few pointed comments to the guard, the man grabbed his coat and rushed for the door.

Guards from the other galleries dashed down the corridors after him.

Half-dozen Clashes Spread Cuban Revolt

Long-predicted Uprising Against Machado Regime Reported Under Way

Havana, Feb. 22.—At least half-a-dozen outbreaks in widely separated parts of this island were reported to-day, heralding the long-predicted revolt against the Machado regime.

In distant Oriente province, cradle of all Cuban revolutions, including the one with Spain, at least one serious clash occurred yesterday.

At Santa Clara, in the middle of the island, rebels were reported to have attacked the government's military station and carried away arms and ammunition.

At the other end of the island, not far west of here, a band of men tried to seize arms and money at a grocery store in the town of Alquilar. They critically wounded the owner.

Meagre reports said two soldiers were slain in a battle at San Antonio. A group led by ex-Senator Gonzales y Arce, former supporter of President Machado, engaged army forces in a battle. No report was made on the casualties.

Other small bands were reported active in that section of Oriente province.

Groups of armed men were said to be starting fights in the sugar fields and interfering with workers. A storekeeper and two bandits were reported slain at Ranchito Velez.

HUNT LEADS TO GAMBLERS

Denver Police Try to Discover If Sharps Abducted C. Boettcher

Associated Press
 Denver, Feb. 22.—In the reported gambling activities of Charles Boettcher, police sought to-day a clue to the identity of the men who seized the thirty-one-year-old heir to a fortune, abducted from the door of his home garage ten days ago and held for $60,000 ransom.

C. E. Stevens, alias Charles Belmont, said by police to be the operator of two gambling resorts near Colorado Springs, was arrested yesterday evening. Police Chief Albert T. Clark described Stevens' arrest as an important step in the solution of the abduction. Stevens was questioned at length to-day.

Detective Captain William J. Armstrong said Stevens had admitted young Boettcher was a frequent visitor at one of his gambling resorts and that he had lost a considerable sum of money.

COAL PROBLEM UNDER REVIEW

"We want to handle your coal, to keep miners working, so we decided to come and lay our cards on the table and ask you, as a council, to use your influence with the company, to permit us to sell island coal in preference to others and assist us by demanding of the company that we be given a chance to handle island coal," he concluded.

WANT FREE TRADE

J. O. Cameron told of a Chamber of Commerce resolution sent members of Parliament at the Economic Conference advocating freer trade between British countries. The chamber could not approach the government to ask Britain to stop importation of coal, he considered. That was the reason the Nanaimo resolution was not endorsed. In order to meet the wishes of the Nanaimo Council, a committee had been appointed to draft a resolution to meet Nanaimo's requirements, Mr. Cameron said.

That committee had interviewed many Victorians and had ascertained that thousands of tons of island coal could be sold if all dealers were allowed to handle it. Dealers not allowed to handle island coal could naturally persuade customers to buy other coals.

Mr. Cameron said he could not understand the attitude of the Canadian Collieries in not allowing all dealers to sell island coal. He personally preferred to sell it, but sold coal from which he got far profit, and coal would continue to be imported if the Canadian Collieries did not change their policy. He said the report of the committee was not presented to the chamber owing to two members who signed and believed the report never would be submitted. The Victoria City Council and the Chamber of Commerce were in sympathy with the Nanaimo resolution and would like to see miners working steadily, which would benefit all parts of Vancouver Island.

ISLAND COAL BEST

W. A. Cameron said dealers were forced to buy other coals when they imported coal from Nanaimo. The importation of Scottish coal would not be serious. The dealers in Vancouver and Victoria knew island coal was superior but were forced to sell other lines to make a profit. He quoted figures showing large decrease in percentage of island coals sold when it was not purchased direct. His company could annually sell 1,000 tons more if allowed to purchase direct.

Mr. Rose said the Nanaimo Council would now realize what happened to island coal when it left the pithead. The fault lay with the coal company, who confined their sales to six dealers in Victoria. Dealers, he said, have an axe to grind: they have to make a living and were compelled to sell other coal. Canadian Collieries had spent thousands of dollars advertising, but the retail dealer made a direct contract with the customer and could switch sales. He stated that the Nanaimo Council brought pressure to bear on the company, the sale of Nanaimo coal in Victoria would be increased by thousands of tons each year.

Mayor Barsby thanked the delegation and assured them no ill feeling existed between the Nanaimo and Victoria City Councils. They had already done their duty in passing the resolution, as they felt British Columbia products should be bought by British Columbia people. He was informed 65 per cent of coal sales went to labor.

Alderman Kerr asked if there was any difference in storage facilities between the six favored dealers and the other eighteen. Alderman Todd assured him that there were many wharves empty. He had recently spent $7,000 to build a new wharf. The trouble was not in Victoria, but the second largest city of the 100,000 troops to aid the local Jehol forces. When, and if, the Japanese complete the Jehol drive they will be only twenty-five miles from Peiping.

Vancouver, Feb. 22.—Winners of the senior A men's basketball championship in Vancouver will tangle with the Blue Ribbons, lone Vancouver Island senior A entry in the provincial finals here March 18 and at Victoria, March 25, according to a schedule of British Columbia play-off dates issued to-day by Walter Hardwick, secretary of the B.C. Owing to numerous rival attractions the B.C. Association this year reserves the right to alter dates and venues. The clash between the provincial senior B men's winners will take place either March 1 and April 1 or March 30 and April 1, with the senior B winners to receive first chance to put on the series.

of organizations, many of which suffered reductions last year and fear further reductions this year.

Reductions in department estimates ranging from $50,000 to $600,000 have been demanded by Mr. Jones and the Provincial Secretary's Department, under which many of the grants come. It is among those which cut more this year.

The scope of the organizations which have been receiving grants is varied. Most of them were cut last year. They include agricultural associations, which have been helped in promoting fairs, charitable organizations and societies carrying on educational campaigns in the interests of good citizenship from which there is little source of revenue.

Last year the B.C. Rifle Association lost its $1,500 grant. Boy Scouts of Vancouver lost a $1,000 grant and Canadian Girl Guides and Canadian Scouts lost grants of $500. Other grants eliminated were: Boys' Canadian Humane Association, $100; 10th Canadian Scottish, $500; S.P.C.A., Victoria, $100; E.P.C.A., Vancouver, $100; St. John Ambulance Association, $1,000; and Victoria Seaman's Institute, $200.

Eliminations are reported to be scheduled, while some of those reduced last year will probably be cut again.

course, to conditions which hit the liquor profits and receipts for motor licenses.

Already the city is facing the loss of about $49,000 for 1933, due to the reduction in grants for teachers' salaries and the fact that social service costs must be paid for the full year instead of nine months.

HOW POLICY REACTS

Following is a brief summary, showing how the dropping revenue and added burdens have effected the city:

Share of liquor profits: 1931, $53,824.04; 1932, $39,850.77; a drop of $13,973.27.

Share of part-mutual tax: 1931, $12,108.91; 1932, $12,781; an increase of $672, owing to the increase in the tax.

Motor license share: 1931, $84,916.61; 1932, $42,824.47; a drop of $42,092.14.

Teachers' salary grant: 1931, $120,717.55; 1932, $108,378.30; a drop of $12,339.25.

These items show a total drop in revenue to the city of $37,700.

Magistrate Resigns In Terminal City

Vancouver, Feb. 22.—In recognition of the Vancouver Council's great need for economy, Magistrate Paul McD. Kerr has tendered his resignation to the Attorney-General and the council.

"There is no longer enough work for four magistrates," said Mr. Kerr. "I recognize that fact and I feel the only proper thing for one having the city's interest at heart is to vacate. The authorities have a heavy burden to carry these days. My resignation may relieve them of embarrassment or of being placed in an invidious position."

Mr. Kerr announced his intention of re-entering private law practice. Mr. Kerr was magistrate in South Vancouver before amalgamation.

Workless Man Tells Why He Hates Relief Camp

"I want to go out and find for myself. If I get to the interior I think I can get a job," he added.

The mayor questioned him about the food. "It's fine. I've paid $1.50 a day for worse food than what is served there."

"The bunk houses are all right. They have superior beds and are comfortable. There's no kick in that direction."

"It's the inaction that gets under your skin. All I had to do while I was there was to peel spuds for a couple of hours."

MAKES A MAN LAZY

"I've worked hard to support myself before and I can still do it. But when you have three good meals a day supplied, clothes, boots, soap, food, and a place to sleep, you wonder a man would get lazy."

"Reading material? Yes, there is a small library at the camp. But you can't read all the time, and the supply soon runs out. We get The Times, The Colonist and The Vancouver Sun sent out every day."

"Recreation? They have a football field and the fellows played on a field when it was frosty, but the ground is too soft now."

"We got up about 7 o'clock in the morning and went to bed about 10 o'clock at night. There was nothing to do all day, except chop a little wood occasionally and that only took a few minutes."

WON'T GO BACK

"I won't go back to the camp. I want to go out and rustle a job and be independent."

"The mayor explained to the applicant that he had no jurisdiction over relief for single men as this comes under the Fordham commission."

"Well I'd sooner be behind the bars in jail than to the camp. It would amount to the same thing," the young man replied.

He finished the interview without securing any help.

SALE OF PART OF C.N.R. URGED

Pope, Conservative, Quebec, Makes Suggestion to Senate

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Senator Rufus Pope, Conservative, Quebec province, made a Canadian National Railways proposal in the senate yesterday evening.

Mr. Pope, son of the late John Henry Pope of the old Macdonald cabinet, said that after a three-month personal examination into Canada's perplexing problem, he had definite knowledge of a group of financial men of standing and responsibility who would be willing to take over the major part of the Canadian National Railways and create a new and profitable transcontinental line from Montreal to Vancouver.

East of Montreal, he proceeded, the intercolonial could be handed back to the Maritime Provinces to operate. Railway and business men of outstanding ability were available in the provinces by the Atlantic to maintain and operate the road.

Under Senator Pope's plan unprofitable branch lines would continue to be operated by the government as colonization roads.

SECOND LINE

The proposition, Senator Pope declared, "simply means a second transcontinental line across Canada, with branch lines owned and operated by a private corporation, as the Canadian Pacific is and has been from its conception. Can it be accomplished? I have no hesitation in saying this can be done and would at least relieve Canada from 50 per cent of her annual railway burden. As the population increased and business grew they would absorb the balance. We must realize that in many instances these so-called branch or colonial lines would be acquired by the C.P.R. as well as by the Canadian National in each and every instance to the relief of Dominion financing.

Senator Pope went on: "I have had a lot of work done and some Canadian financial men who own very large businesses and who are connected with other very large international corporations have also had their staticians and economists work over the problem, and I am satisfied these people are prepared to associate themselves with others in assisting the Dominion out of its difficulty, provided Canada is ready to sell the Canadian National Railways to business men on a business basis."

INFORMATION ASKED

Senator James Murdock, Liberal Ontario, former Minister of Labor, presented a memorandum seeking enlightenment on the provisions of the bill as affecting the social, humane and phases regarding the general public and railwaymen. Mr. Hon. Arthur Meighen, government party leader, promised consideration to the memorandum.

FEDERAL COAL SHIPMENT AID

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Federal assistance in the movement of Canadian coal will be continued, at least until the end of the fiscal year of 1933-34. Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Mines, told the Commons yesterday. In committee of supply just before the 11 o'clock adjournment, one item was passed in each of the departments of National Revenue, Marine and Mines.

On the item of $2,000,000 for the payments "in connection with the movement of coal under conditions prescribed by the Governor-in-Council," the minister was questioned as to how long this assistance would be continued.

Mr. Gordon replied there could be no definite limit set, but to remove any apprehensions he would say it would be continued until March 31, 1934. As the money had to be voted from year to year only one year's payment could be guaranteed.

The item this year is $250,000 greater than last year because of the extra movements of coal under the subvention agreement.

Recommendation that the present tax penalty addition clause in the Municipal Act be rescinded and that those who pay their taxes before or on the due date be allowed a 10 per cent discount, will also be forwarded to the convention by the council.

SIR MALCOLM CAMPBELL AMBLES ALONG AT 272 M.P.H.

On the cement-like sands of Daytona Beach to-day, Sir Malcolm Campbell sent his famous Bluebird over the measured mile both ways at an average speed for the two runs of a little more than 272 miles an hour, compared with the record speed he set last year of 253.968 miles an hour. We shall expect him to say he was thoroughly disappointed that he did not touch the 300-mile-an-hour mark.

Great Britain has been busy setting up records in the air and on land in recent years. The other day Squadron-Leader O. R. Gayford and Flight-Lieutenant G. E. Nicholls broke the long-distance non-stop record by flying from England to South Africa—Cranwell to Walvisch Bay—a distance of 5,340 miles. Last September, Flight-Lieutenant O. Unwins set a new altitude record by getting up in the air 43,976 feet. In the 1931 Schneider Cup races, Flight-Lieutenant G. R. Stainforth breezed through the air at the tidy little clip of 407 miles an hour. The feats of the Molisons, husband and wife, of course, are a byword all over the world.

Now comes this latest feat of Sir Malcolm Campbell. There is very little the layman can say about it. It is a tribute to the man and a tribute to British automobile engineering. Perhaps no Briton who has gone to the United States in search of sporting laurels is more popular there than the world's speed king. The term "good sport" is an appellation to which he is thoroughly entitled. Incidentally, he has been increasing his "miles per hour" ever since 1925, when he was clocked in Britain at 150; in 1927 he hit 174; in 1928, 206; in 1931, 245; in 1932, 253; and to-day, 272.108.

To pilot an automobile at 272 miles an hour is something to crow about. It would seem to demand the grit and courage of a young man. Sir Malcolm is nearly fifty; but he seems to pay no attention to his years. He admits he is a fatalist, that when his time comes, it will come, no matter what he may or may not do.

CANADA'S NEED IS MORE TRADE AND LESS HYPOCRISY

There seems to be still a prospect that the cattle-oil barter deal between Canada and Soviet Russia will go through. Mr. G. G. Serkau, head of the syndicate sponsoring the proposal, wired from Ottawa to the convention of the Western Canada Livestock Union in session at Calgary yesterday intimating that his organization had satisfied the Dominion government that it had the support of the Soviet and that no necessity now existed for financial guarantees from the federal authorities. The livestock body passed a resolution urging the deal be approved. Mr. Serkau is hopeful and stated in Ottawa to-day that a decision by the administration is expected soon; but he and his colleagues want to be assured that if the trade shall be consummated, customs regulations will not be varied to bar importation of Russian products.

A somewhat vigorous campaign has been conducted against this proposal to exchange Russian oil and anthracite coal in exchange for Canadian dairy cattle and beef hides. But our neighbors on the south, while not diplomatically recognizing Soviet Russia, are doing a good business in a market of 165,000,000 people. Great Britain, of course, is in diplomatic contact with Russia and is increasing her business all the time. True, she has served notice that the existing trading arrangement will terminate; but in serving that notice she intimated that she would be pleased to negotiate a new treaty.

Canadian stockmen are having a hard time of it and they are insisting that what appears to be an opportunity of selling 100,000 of their surplus stock of cattle should not be ignored. Russia is in urgent need of stock and hides. With the exception of a small quantity which this country imports from Trinidad, Canada's oil supplies come from non-empire countries, largely, of course, from the United States. The hard coal which would accompany the oil as Russia's part of the exchange would not affect the Dominion's coal mining industry, since it would merely displace to some extent, perhaps not a very great deal, the supplies of anthracite this country annually imports from the Pennsylvania fields.

Although an attempt has been made to show that Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce in the King government, supported the present administration in its objection to dealings with Soviet Russia, simply because he asked how any man could make a deal "unless there is stability and some known factor under which the trade can be made," Hansard's report of his comments puts quite a different complexion on his attitude. We quote:

At the present time Russia is buying from the United States very substantial quantities of steel rails; she is buying very substantial quantities of electrical equipment; very substantial quantities of agricultural implements; very substantial quantities of boots and shoes, running into millions of dozens of pairs. I do not know why Canada, which has the second largest, if not the largest, per capita foreign trade of any country in the world, should set herself upon such a high pedestal, so much higher than the United States of America, than Great Britain, than France, than Germany, than Italy, in her refusal to do business with the Soviet republic. I submit to him (the Minister of Trade and Commerce) that the hon. member for Yorkton asked him a very simple question. He asked him: If the deal could be financed, would he permit the entry of the commodities to which reference was made? The minister has not yet answered that question. The House must come to a decision on it. The country wants to know; business men have a right to know. It is not only the farmers of the country who have a right to know; the manufacturers of agricultural implements have a right to know; the manufacturers of rubber goods are asking the question. Every industry in Canada is looking for foreign business. Foreign industrial business is being done in Russia to-day. Are we going to take advantage of this or not? That is a question that is being put to the minister. The minister of national revenue will not answer it although he purported to speak for the government to-night. The Prime Minister has not answered it. The country wants to know. When the question is answered, business men will proceed to do business.

If ever there was a time in the history of this country when trade was needed most urgently, that time certainly is now. In this barter deal the government at Ottawa should think first of all of the hundreds of thousands of Canadians who are out of work and whose lot will not be improved until we are doing more business with other countries. We do not like the way Russia is running her internal affairs; there is not the slightest prospect of her system being adopted here; but there is nothing we can do about her form of government; nor is there anything she can do about ours. But we always have been willing to trade with other countries, regardless of their forms of government, because the trading benefited our own people; and that is the only consideration which would be involved in developing commerce with Russia.

GETTING USED TO ELECTIONS IN GERMANY

For the third time in less than twelve months the electors of Germany will go to the polls on March 5 to determine the political make-up of the next Reichstag. On this occasion Adolf Hitler will make his first appeal as Chancellor of the Reich, and his objective is a working majority over all other parties. At present he is the leader of a government in which the majority of the portfolios are held by men who acted under Von Papen and Von Schleicher. The former is Vice-Chancellor and is considered to be the "check-rein" member, who, when Chancellor, openly defied the leader to whom he allowed himself to become second in command.

Since assuming office—as was to be expected—Hitler has very considerably modified the Nazi programme which he had been expounding up and down the country before the Reichstag election of last July. Very little has been heard recently of the fiery outbursts against France which lighted up many platform orations last year. If there has been any threat of pogroms against the Jews since Hitler became Chancellor, the Nazi forces have pitched it in a minor key. Indeed, through one of his ministers the other day, the head of the government assured The London News-Chronicle that his policy would be based on the following four fundamental points: (1) To live in peace and friendship with all countries; (2) No experiments in foreign affairs; (3) No tampering with currency; (4) No dangerous economic experiments.

The four points mentioned may be well and good as long as the Nazis are not able to command a majority in the Reichstag. As things were at dissolution, buttressed by other reactionary by no means hysterical—by monarchists and aristocrats who knew what they wanted—Hitler stood for practically nothing. In fact the Chancellor attempted to work with the Reichstag although he was originally pledged to destroy it. But presuming there are sufficient votes cast on March 5 to justify a new House of, say, 600 members—one seat is allotted for every 60,000 votes—and Hitler obtains more than half that number, the question arises as to whether the moderate programme to which we have referred might undergo a somewhat radical change.

Last July's election determined a Reichstag of 608 members, and 230 followers of Hitler were elected. At the subsequent election in November only sufficient votes were cast to warrant a Reichstag of 582, and of this number Hitler's following accounted for 195. In both Houses the Social Democrats and the Catholic Centrists held the balance, both parties more or less hostile to the Hitlerites.

Two influential German newspapers with recognized Liberal views, Vorwaerts and Der Deutsche, throw out hints of what might take place if Hitler were to obtain a complete working majority and attempt to revise his policies along the lines of the original programme. The former charges the present ministry as notoriously hostile to the Constitution and implies that any interference with it "would demand from the working people the application of their last and uttermost resources." Der Deutsche says: "Employees and the trade unions have every ground for the keenest mistrust; they are ready to fight."

On what happens on March 5 in Germany, therefore, depends to a very considerable extent the future not only of that country but of Europe in general. From the point of view of military preparedness, it must be remembered that under a Hitler regime the "Steel Helmets" and the "Brown Shirts"—Nationalistic and Nazi organizations—no longer are illegal bodies. In other words, they are, in fact if not in name, a German militia. Small wonder, then, that much interest is being shown in the campaign now in progress.

OPTIMIST

SEVERAL PEOPLE have complained that I have been growing too pessimistic of late. This shows you how the present age is incapable of judging optimism and pessimism, content and despair; for obviously I am the most optimistic man in the world and contented to a serious fault. The depression has shown clearly the present chaos in judgments on such matters. A man who questions any existing institution or arrangement is a pessimist, and an optimist, in popular opinion, is the fellow who can shout the loudest that prosperity is just around the corner (having removed his savings from the bank and buried them in the backyard at midnight).

I WAS READING just now in an obscure paper the personal confession of an Alberta businessman, who said he liked the depression. It had taught him to walk to work instead of driving a car, with great benefit to his health. It had taught him once more the pleasure of plain food with a keen appetite. It had taught him to cultivate and know his neighbors instead of making whoopee at gin parties. It had even taught him to pay some attention to his wife and realize that she was a good scout, instead of trailing blondes. He said he had never been so happy before in his life and looked forward with horror to the return of prosperity.

THERE IS a great deal in that. Many men are better off to-day for having lost a large part of their possessions but few realize it. Few realize that during the boom era they weren't really happy, only excited, dissipated and vulgar. Now they imagine they are unhappy when they are only sane, calm and natural. Still, a few have found out what philosophers have long known, that a man who can't be happy with plenty to eat and reasonable comfort can't be happy with millions; he can only be disgusting. But on the whole the human race has never been so unhappy before, and the most unhappy as a rule are not those who have lost everything but those who have lost less. They live in riches in misery for fear they may be reduced to poverty and content.

BRIGHT THOUGHT

THE UNITED STATES Senate has summoned fifty leading financiers and business men of the country to tell it how to cure the depression. This is probably the most foolish and futile thing the Senate could do; unless it be argued that the men who got us into the depression and kept us there are now best able to get us out. You will recall that President Hoover did the same thing after the crash of 1929. He summoned the big business men and after a day of conference, they came out of the White House to announce that the depression would be ended immediately, that wages would not be cut, that prosperity was in the place which needs no mention. Mr. Ford, indeed, was going to raise wages immediately and altogether the Kingdom of Heaven was at hand. You remember how well that conference of big businessmen cured the depression. As a matter of fact, most of the ablest members of the United States Senate (which contains some of the best brains in the world despite its reputation) know what should be done about the depression. They can't do it because it would adversely affect the interests of the big business men.

ONE OF THE commercial giants summoned before the Senate says that prosperity will return when the government ceases to meddle in business. This is delightful when you remember that if the United States Government hadn't put its credit behind business and loaned it billions through its Reconstruction Finance Corporation, business would be in utter prostration to-day. And if the government suddenly got out of business virtually all business men would be broke to-morrow morning. Only the organized force of a nation can save its business in these times. Only through government can that force be directed and organized. There will be more and more government in business everywhere because business can't get on without it.

OBSCENITY

THE UNITED STATES Customs service has agreed to admit reproductions of Michelangelo's wicked Renaissance murals in the Sistine Chapel, as being respectable enough for the American people. For a time they were held up as obscene since some of the figures have no clothes on. If Michelangelo is still interested in such things, he must have been gratified at the decision of the customs service. Here is a country, in which obscenity has become one of the leading industries, refusing admission to the Sistine murals because some of the angels have lost their nighties. If Michelangelo, who painted them, could come to the United States to-day, if he could see the mass production of prurience in Hollywood, the high-salaried dirt of the yellow newspapers, the luscious advertisements and super-sized stories of the magazines, then the poor old fellow would rush away in horror. He would flee from this New Birth of Learning back to the innocent Renaissance. There, at least, in an age supposed to be the most sensual in history, he could paint angels without their nighties because he believed that was a true picture, that angels often went about that way; he didn't paint them without nighties in order to sell cigarettes and corsets, to stimulate morose minds jaded by the depression.

DURANT AGAIN
 DR. WILL DURANT, who did little harm in the world so long as he was content to garble the philosophies of Kant and Aristotle, has turned to war mongering on the radio. He now cheerfully predicts a war between the United States and Japan, and such is our habit of worshipping names that he will be accepted by the moron millions of the radio as an un doubted authority on war with Japan because he is a doubtful authority on ancient philosophy and knows all about Russia after two months' investigation. Worse still, his predictions of a war with Japan will be cabined to that country. They will be circulated among the still more morose millions there. The great Durant will be represented as preaching a war against Japan. By the time the story has penetrated into the consciousness of the Japanese masses, it will say that all the intellectual forces of the United States are preparing openly now for the destruction of Japan. This will soothe the troubled state of the world remarkably. Our western system of baloney, which fattens on names without bothering about the men behind them, is quite harmless so long as it is confined to movie actresses, prize-fighters and gangsters. It becomes dangerous when it starts to monkey with important things.

A FELLOW WHO has just come back from the Orient and who went through the bloody business of Shanghai tells me that most of the white people there favor the Japanese in the present crisis. They probably have their own good reasons for this view and doubtless know a good deal more about the two races involved than we can know at this distance. But their reasoning is peculiar. This fellow told me he favored the Japanese because they would bring western civilization into China, after they had got hold of it. The Chinese, he said, were sunk in utter barbarism but the Japanese had acquired North American ways and would introduce our entire economic and social system into China, which would be a priceless boon to the Chinese themselves. "Why," I said to this chap, "did you, a Canadian and a skilled and experienced professional man, go to live in China?" "Well," he said, "I couldn't get a job or make a living in this country."

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES,
 February 22, 1908.
 (From The Times File)

All the noted visitors are coming to Victoria to take in the golf links and Sir Edgar Vincent, the noted financier and diplomatist, was no exception to the general rule. Sir Edgar is very keen on golf and he expressed himself as delighted with the course at Oak Bay.

Considerable interest is being taken in the matter of beautifying Victoria. Naturally the city is one of the beauty spots of the west, but as the population increases it does not do to leave things in the state in which nature left them. The city council means business in the matter of street and sidewalk work this year. At the meeting of the streets committee, consisting of all the members of the council, which met last evening, it was decided to call for tenders for two more concrete-misere in order to facilitate the work.

Should the senior lacrosse teams of Vancouver and New Westminster decide to come out as straight professionals it is very probable that Victoria will enter the senior amateur league. There is little difference in the position, but it sounds rather better than to play intermediate.

GOOD WORK

To the Editor:—With reference to the salesman's course just started in the citizens recreation room, may I express my appreciation to the instructor, L. E. Good, who is giving his time free. I might add here that this is the first real constructive step the young unemployed man in Victoria has received toward a permanent re-establishment. What we want is more men like Mr. Good.

APPRECIATION.

MORATORIUM

To the Editor:—The impression seems to be general, not only in the minds of those who have available funds for loaning under first mortgage, but also among a number of real estate men in the city, that any money advanced for first mortgage loans must be under a moratorium, which was put into effect by the provincial government on or about April 1, 1932.

This is not the case. The moratorium only affects mortgage money lent prior to this date. Any loans effected after April 1, 1932, do not come under the present existing moratorium.

KEEP OUT OF DEBT

To the Editor:—In a recent issue I read of action being taken to remove a minister of the gospel owing to his being in financial difficulties. Evidently there is a rule in that particular church that their leader and spiritual adviser should keep out of debt. Not a bad idea. It struck me it would work wonders if all men seeking a clear balance sheet of their own affairs before offering themselves for election. True, it would be many, but if in private life men find it impossible to keep out of debt, they surely should not be trusted with the affairs of state.

What a alarming condition when public men well paid go on ignoring their indebtedness. Some of our merchants are altogether too long-suffering. There are different ways of stealing and this is one of the meanest. I am speaking of those who have no intention of ever paying. Indeed, I have heard some of these public men about to high heaven about their integrity and standing for honesty, truth and morals.

"Oh wad some power the giffle gie us To see ourselves as others see us!"
 J. T. Y.

ATTENTION, LANDLORDS

To the Editor:—I see by the papers that there is a campaign being put on to induce people to spend money on their houses. For goodness sake, get the people running this campaign to tell the landlords to fix up their kitchens if they want to rent their houses. The reason I say this is that my husband and I have been looking over houses to rent for over a month now, and really we've hardly seen a decent, bright kitchen in any of them. A woman spends the greater part of her time in the kitchen, and when she goes through a house and sees a kitchen with dingy walls, small sink and dirty drainboards, that house is out right away. In fact, I almost expected to see rats and cockroaches in some of the kitchens I was in!

It's all very fine for the agent or the landlord to tell you they will fix it up, but that's no good to you.

EFFORTS FOR RELEASE OF MAN HELD BY BANDITS FAIL

The whereabouts of Charles Boettcher, company president and member of a wealthy pioneer Colorado family, who was abducted by two men a week ago last Sunday night, were still unknown to-day. Claude Boettcher, right, his father, had written notes he believed were received by those holding his son, but yesterday evening it was admitted no definite clue had been found, though the elder Boettcher was willing to pay the $60,000 ransom demanded. At the top is a picture of the palatial home in Denver to which the thirty-one-year-old millionaire returned with Mrs. Boettcher, his wife, above, late on the night of February 13 from a party at a downtown hotel. At the garage he was seized by two men, who before they hurried away with him, handed Mrs. Boettcher a note demanding $60,000 ransom, and told her to give it to Boettcher's father.

SOCIETY WHIRL GAY IN FLORIDA; ROULETTE WHEELS WHIR, ONE MAN LOSES $200,000 IN ONE NIGHT

By BETSY SCHUYLER

PALM BEACH—There is a ban on the word "Depression" down here, and riotously striped awnings, colorful beach parasols and handsome, gaudy beach costumes make the place festive. It is positively gay here, and don't let anyone say it isn't.

Moreover, roulette wheels have begun to whirl, and if not so persistently as in 1929, at least one man lost nearly $200,000 one night and regained his losses within a week.

Bradley's sees a gay crowd by night, if a sparser one than in the boom days. And there has just been an immensely amusing ping pong tournament, among other diversions, in which Neysa McMein swung a mean bat.

MANY SMART HATS
Hats of all kinds are making their appearance. Driving over to Hialeah Park the other afternoon Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson wore a white straw sailor banded in blue which sat her head almost straight. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney wore a very shallow, low, wide-brimmed hat, with a striped shirrmaker's bow and a long white cord-draw topcoat. Mrs. P. A. B. Widener wears a large brimmed white straw hat, banded in blue, beige and white print, to match a jacket dress of the print. Mrs. Dodge Sloane wears a variety of different hats but has one particularly interesting little smart hat which she wore with a scarlet pullover and a gray divided skirt, making a foursome at golf.

A few honeymoon couples add a romantic note right now to the social colony. The former Lillas Kent and her husband, James Knott, spent much time on the beach. Lillas wore barefooted green sandals with a short-sleeved white silk sports dress, and her nails weren't bloody red, as many of the barefoot girls with cheeks of tan wear theirs. Mrs. Harrison Williams is another barefoot scandal addict, but she wears her toe nails lacquered to match her almost magenta-red finger nails. She looks awfully smart, as usual, in the white linen, mannishly tailored suits she wears about, particularly when she knots a gay handkerchief about her distinguished neck.

ALL-WHITE COSTUMES
All-white costumes are not so ubiquitous this year as formerly. Mrs. Leonard Thomas is one who sticks to white much of the time. She looks particularly nice in a white crepe dress with round yoke and no collar, topped by a hip-length jacket of white angora, made with the same round yoke and no collar and buttoning at the neck with a single big white pearl button. She wears a brimmed hat at the slightest uptilted angle.

There is a nautical flavor to many of the runabout pyjamas the younger set wear. Elizabeth Young, of Baltimore, has a striped pullover jersey and blue sailor pants suit that is very ship-shape-looking, with brass buttons and a white cord about the beltline.

STRIPES AND PRINTS
Stripes and prints are worn when folks motor over to the races at Hialeah Park, much of the time. Mrs. Dodge Sloane wears a lovely brown and green print on a white background, with white accessories. President-elect Roosevelt's daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Roosevelt, wears prints much of the time. One suit she has made with a green and white, with a fine little novelty striped print, with a wide brown girdle.

You see a great variety of costumes on the golf links at the Palm Beach Country Club. Mrs. Shevlin Smith tops a shirtmaker's dress of striped silk with a short-sleeved flannel jacket in a vivid green and wears a sports hat, a green crown and a white-brim stitched in the same wide stitching as the stripes on her frock. Jane Sanford, playing with her, wears a striped linen dress, black and white, with deep kick pleats to give her room to swing. Grace Amory wears soft mules, blue or green knitted angora dresses, one a particularly lovely blue, a lacy weave, with a flaring skirt and a polo collar.

Speeches of Five Students
Features Meeting of College Society

Five student speakers addressed the meeting of the Victoria College Science Club held yesterday evening at Victoria College. Howard McMahon, president, occupied the chair and introduced the different speakers. Professor Walter Gage, an honorary president of the society gave a brief criticism of the speakers at the conclusion of the meeting.

Miss Little dealt with the history of these problems and the solutions that had been offered at one time and another. They had all been proved to be impossible with Euclidean geometric methods in the past century, the speaker stated. The "Plantesimal Hypothesis" was the subject of the paper delivered by Gerald Ward, in which he dealt with the work of Laplace in the eighteenth century and the Nebular Hypothesis of Moulton and Chamberlain in the present day. The next speaker, Ian Strang, dealt with the subject of Mine Cases with special reference to carbon monoxide, the deadliest gas found in mines. He told of the various means used to determine its presence and the means taken to combat it.

"Toxicology" was the subject dealt with by William Findlay, and the speaker gave a brief resume of the classification and action of some of the most common poisons. Thomas Jackson, the last speaker of the evening, told of Bishop Berkeley and his philosophical theories with regard to the calculus.

Marmalade Oranges Coming on Market

Marmalade is such an important food in the household that every homemaker is considering ways and means of making a really successful "batch" of marmalade. The only sure way of making a perfect, golden colored, fine flavored marmalade is by using bottled fruit pectin and following the tested recipe given carefully. Fruit varies so much in the jelly-making content and requires such long cooking to concentrate the juices and sugar that the most efficient way is to use the short boil method.

This simply means adding to the fruit juices pectin which has been concentrated and bottled in order to get perfect jelling. The recipes here give a really sparkling orange marmalade, and flavoured as the fresh fruit because long boiling has not destroyed the tang of the orange.

Use the portions given in the recipe and vary as the type of marmalade requires. Three cups (1½ lbs.) prepared citrus fruit, six cups (2 lb. 10 oz.) sugar, half cup bottled fruit pectin.

For orange marmalade, use four medium oranges and juice of one or two lemons; for grapefruit marmalade use two medium grapefruit; for orange, grapefruit and lemon marmalade, use one of each fruit.

To prepare fruit, remove skins in quarters. Lay quarters flat and shave off discard. Lay about half of the white part. With a very sharp knife, cut remaining rind into long very slender shreds. Add 1½ cups of water and ¼ teaspoon soda.

Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, for just ten minutes, stirring occasionally. Cut off tight skin of peeled fruit and slip pulp out of each section. Add pulp and juice to cooked rind. Simmer, covered, twenty minutes longer.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit, solidly packed into large kettle, flooding each cup with juice, or if necessary, with water. Bring to a boil and boil gently five minutes. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just five minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot marmalade at once. Makes about ten eight-ounce jars of perfect marmalade at very low cost.

Insurance Assumes Mankind's Hazards

(By JACK BARRACLOUGH, C.L.U.)

Life insurance is a comparatively new project, compared to its forms of insurance, having been in existence only during the last half century. The first forms of life insurance came into being at the end of the seventeenth century, but there were no established plans of insurance such as we know now, until the end of the eighteenth century. Great Britain can claim honors for being first in the field of any account, but we must give to America the credit of making the greatest growth. Nowadays we have the pleasure of benefiting by the experience of countless organizations and companies over a period of many years and we know of the numerous privileges which we may enjoy that were not in existence a few years ago. Mankind is exposed to many serious hazards, the happenings of which it is impossible to forestall or prevent. Fire, disability and premature death are only a few of these hazards, the only consoling feature regarding these being the fact that we are able to provide against such occurrences. Insurance in its many forms is the means of enabling individuals to safeguard themselves against their misfortunes by having the losses of the unfortunate few paid by the contributions of the many who are exposed to the same risk, but who are lucky enough to be spared. Life insurance takes care of the loss sustained because of premature death and it can be defined as a contract whereby for a stipulated payment (called a premium) one party usually a life insurance company, agrees to pay the other party (usually the insured or beneficiary) a fixed sum upon the occurrence of death or other specified event.

HITLER AND VICE-CHANCELLOR OF GERMANY

WHY NOT TRY IT?

ically the whole nation spends its spare time on competitions. This is a healthy pursuit, and it should be encouraged by all who have the welfare of the human race at heart. In an age when machines do practically everything for us, it is refreshing to find so many people trying to do something for themselves, even if it is only the solving of a cross-word puzzle. Independence is shown, too, for so far as I know, no professional solver has yet become a millionaire.

In the Old Country cross-word puzzling is a thoroughly respectable occupation. It has the blessing of Britain's Legislators, and is unconnected with the charity that begins and ends there, so that the most delicately-tuned conscience can remain undisturbed by the purchase of a postal order entitling the owner to a millionth chance.

In fact, the pursuit is entirely worthy of the enthusiasm shown by both competitors and promoters. Personally, I suffer many pangs of regret that we in Canada are not permitted to utilize our spare hours in this admirable manner. But I notice that patriotic British newspapers are now catering for overseas competitors. Perhaps I ought to have a shot for one of these prizes, but what holds me back is sheer cowardice—the fear, in fact, of what I might win.

EMPLOYMENT CAMPAIGN

To the Editor:—There must be many willing to give work if only they could finance the payment. Their inability is due to a shortage of response of their debtors. Would it not be of service to impress the public with the doctrine that it is not the amount of money that matters, but the speed with which it circulates?

Some years ago, with this purpose, a $10 bill was started on its rounds with a slip attached warning the holder to move it along quickly, not through the bank, and a record was taken of the services it performed.

Possibly if merchants and others were provided with a small slip to attach to all paper money advocating speed of movement this might stimulate the public conscience.

Further, if merchants and others who have accounts to collect were provided with an official slip from the Chamber of Commerce to enclose with other accounts, this also might focus public opinion on the duty of the individual.

Too often the debtor avoids his creditor merely because he cannot meet the whole bill. The point is to speed up with what he has, no matter how small, rather than to wait accumulation of the whole.

Another difficulty is that debtors often assume that certain creditors "can afford to wait." The landlord and the medical man are frequent sufferers from this false assumption, and there are many others. The creditor has his commitments, and if he does not receive his income he cannot give the employment he used to give by personal or business expenditures.

My own experience is that for every head-on hard-up debtor there are two with means who shelve behind a cry of hard times. Greater strictness and not greater leniency will be our only salvation.

SOME THOUGHTS ON THE MACHINE

1. That if machinery has displaced labor, machinery should be made to maintain the labor it has displaced.

2. The introduction of machinery forced the populace from the land, caused the division of labor, finally disposed labor to a state of disorientation—in short, the right to live.

3. The machine is the machine that labor, applied to land, creates wealth. The return to labor is sustenance. The machine, applied to land, creates super-abundance. The function of the machine is to produce, not to consume, so it should be used to guarantee the essentials of life to all, then individual labor will be free to engage in congenial pursuits.

4. There are two classes of machine, generally speaking—beneficial and destructive. The machine in operation and producing, on to perfection, of individual and collective benefit of all (beneficial machinery); the other, destructive machinery that destroys human life.

5. There is the social machine and the anti-social machine. The social machine is composed of many who benefit.

6. The machine cannot repay the damage it has done in the past. In the future it can abolish both extreme want and extreme luxury.

7. If the above are taken as self-evident facts, what is needed is a free society with a guaranteed citizenship.

Calgary Bronks Whip Drumheller

Drumheller, Alta., Feb. 22.—Calgary Bronks yesterday evening defeated Drumheller Miners 3 to 2 in the third game of the southern Alberta Senior Amateur Hockey League play-offs and force a fourth game to decide the title.

With the opening game ending in a 1 to 1 tie and Miners winning the second 1 to 0, Bronks were called upon for their best to stave off elimination from the Allan Cup playdowns in which they figured last year as Alberta champions. The fourth game probably will be played in Calgary at a date yet to be decided.

"LONDON WALL"

CLEVER SHOW

Theatre Club Production at Crystal Garden Theatre Proves Better Than Average

The clever members of the Theatre Club at the Crystal Garden Theatre yesterday evening presented as their second production of the season, John Van Druten's stage success, "London Wall." It is a lively, light, frankly, frank, and sparkling comedy, presenting the modern London business and in her amoral hopes, her ecstasies and disappointments, as worked out among the office staff of a firm of London solicitors.

Standing out in the production were evidences of much better than usual stage direction, and exceptionally happy casting, particularly in the female roles. With rapidly alternating entrances and exits and short conversations, the action was carried through with professional smoothness and with an absence of stagey interludes. Credit for the unusually skilful direction goes to Christopher Freese, president of the club.

Mr. Freese himself played the part of Bickenbach, the junior clerk, general office factotum, revealing well developed sense of footlight values in comedy and action.

Barbara Henning played Miss Jennings, the firm's secretary, and Miss Scott Burritt, the feminine stars of the show, Miss Hall, playing Miss Janus, Mr. Walker's secretary, mourning her frustrated ten-year engagement, showed distinct emotional powers. Miss Jennings was naturally well suited to her unsophisticated, sweet, eager-young-things part. She, like Miss Hall, has told Miss Burritt, as the elderly spinster, continually fussing around her solicitor's office, was a delight. She, of course, is something of the nature of an old master behind the footlights.

Noel Cusack and Gladys Shepherd played the minor parts as two stenographers. Miss Cusack, known for her portrayals of vivacious quick-witted, young femininity in other plays, while Miss Shepherd, as a new-comer to the company, had the honor of the interpretation of sophisticated London office blonde.

David Denbig, as the young shipping clerk, affected by a budding but shy love, was almost brilliant in flashes. H. T. Hewitt was imposing as the senior partner of the legal firm, Herbert E. Post had the difficult role of the middle-aged man believing that he was irresistible to women.

The executive staff of the club for the production were: Mrs. Bell, Doore, musical director; S. W. Batten, stage manager; H. V. S. Page, publicity; Mr. Post, general manager; Miss Jeanne-Jeanne, business manager.

"London Wall" will be repeated by the company at the Crystal Garden Theatre this evening. The proceeds from the production go in aid of the club's recreation fund for unemployed men.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Owen Nares, who appears in "There Goes the Bride" at the Capitol Theatre this week, studied for the stage under Rosina Filippi, and made his first appearance at the Haymarket Theatre in 1903, walking on in the production of "Her Father." Then he went on the tour and returned to London at St. James's Theatre in 1909 in "Old Heidelberg." From that day he has appeared with most of the leading English actors and actresses, and has played in which he has appeared are "The Fantasia," "The Wandering Jew," "Two White Angels," "Hold Everything," "Living Together," and "The Calendar." This was followed by "Counsel's Opinion."

EMPIRE THEATRE

Gibb McLaughlin's hair was turned to silver-grey for his characterisation of Faringley, family butler to John Loder (Twenty-seventh Earl of Malmesbury), in the Paramount British picture, "Money Means Nothing."

McLaughlin spent two hours every morning with his make-up expert undergoing treatment which added forty years to his age. His face and hands were carefully lined and covered with various hues of grease-paint. His hair was parted in the middle, set with fixing solution, and then carefully covered with a greyish white powder.

Typical aged retainer of an aristocratic British family was the result.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

The romance and glamor of tropic seas in the South Pacific serve as the colorful background to "The Painted Woman," now at the Playhouse Theatre with Spencer Tracy and Peggy Shannon in the principal roles, adapted from A. C. Kennedy's thrilling romance of the South Sea, the picture is said to be one of the most outstanding films of the season, and was directed by John Hyams. William (Stage) Boyd and Irving Pichel head the strong supporting cast.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Ten years ago, when Ben Lyon was in New York City vainly trying to get work in films, he and S. Pendleton lived in neighboring apartments. Though both have been in Hollywood for many years, their first meeting since that time was on the set for "By Whose Hand," the Columbia picture in which they both appear at the Columbia Theatre.

Another coincidental meeting on the same set was that of William Halligan and Tom McGuire, who were together in a hit musical comedy, "Made in America," more than ten years ago and had not met in the interim.

COLUMBIA

STARTS THURSDAY

"The Big Broadcast"

Continues—12 Noon to 11 p.m.

FINE CAST AT

THE DOMINION

Helen Hayes, Ramon Novarro, Lewis Stone and W. Oland in "The Son-Daughter"

The maps of San Francisco's Chinatown, its plots, intrigues, and tong battles, and the romance of a Chinese girl who sells herself at auction to aid her countrymen, furnish the dramatic background of "The Son-Daughter," in which Helen Hayes, heroine of "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," and Ramon Novarro are teamed at the Dominion Theatre.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, based on David Belasco's famous stage play, is a colorful and spectacular exposure of the inner workings of Chinatown and the struggle that existed between royalists and revolutionists. Gorgeous celebrations, great gambling dens and romance are contrasted with the intrigues of grim henchmen in the secret catcombs of the Oriental quarter.

Clarence Brown directed the difficult Lewis Stone, who appears as the stern but kindly Chinese father, Warner Oland plays the sinister high-binder Fen Sha.

RUSSIA IS TOPIC OF TALK MONDAY

J. Brown, Workers' Delegate, to Tell What He Saw in Russia at City Temple

"Russia As I Saw It" will be the subject of an address to be given on Monday evening next at the City Temple by J. Brown of Vancouver, who was delegated by the friends of the Soviet Union to spend three months in Russia to study conditions there. In the course of his tour, as one of five Canadian delegates, he visited all the large industrial centres, such as Magnitogorsk, Dniepropetrovsk, Kuznetsk and Don Valley and the Ukraine agricultural region. His observations will be of interest at the present time. As a worker, himself he will give a picture of the advance made in industry and agriculture since the inauguration of the five-year plan. The address will be lengthy and questions will be invited.

RELIEF GROUP FOR OAK BAY

At the call of Reeve and Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, a score of representative Oak Bay residents met at the Mayhew home on Beach Drive yesterday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a Friendly Help Association for Oak Bay municipality.

Reeve Mayhew explained that the needy in Oak Bay municipality were more numerous than generally known, and that the time was pertinent for such an organization in the municipality. There is no intention of having resident of Oak Bay discontinue their contributions to the "Victoria Friendly Help," but rather to augment their giving by caring for the local needy as well.

In supporting the reeve's position, Vaughn Roberts, municipal relief officer, outlined the work of his department. The municipality, he declared, was providing enough work to meet bare subsistence requirements of the needy only. Thus far, the three Oak Bay churches had handled the clothing situation ably, but with next winter not far distant and the supplies of the church people near exhaustion, the time was ripe for a single all-inclusive relief unit.

COMMITTEE FORMED

On motion of Canon A. E. del. Nunn, of St. Mary's Church, seconded by Dr. Gerald B. Switzer of the Oak Bay United Church, a Friendly Help Association for Oak Bay was organized. The carefully selected representative committee forming the nucleus of the new organization included:

Every Night

hundreds of young men look through the rent rooms ads. They want to change their room for a more homelike, comfortable one, with a "private family," or perhaps they have just come to town. They look at the rent rooms ads and find them all the same. But every once in a while some advertiser writes the RIGHT kind of an ad and her troubles are over. She tells that there is a "garage near." The Y.M.C.A. is near, or some large plant that would be near his work. She tells the transportation facilities. So many minutes to town, etc. It's all in the ad.

NEWS SOUGHT ON DEFICIT

Fears Voiced It May Be the Largest in History of British Columbia

Party and Financial Troubles Face Members Here For Session

An early return of the 1931-32 public accounts of British Columbia is being sought by members of the British Columbia Legislature gathering here for the opening of the session to-morrow and entertaining fears the accounts will reveal the largest deficit in the history of the province.

With leadership problems and the future of the party giving cause for grave concern, the financial troubles of the government add considerably to the spirit of gloom with which many members face their sessional duties.

Finances, the prospects of the party being divided under two leaders and the chances for a union government form the main topics of discussion around the buildings. Premier Tolmie has notified the members that there will be no change of attitude during the session. The government will carry on as a conservative minority and anticipates the backing of Conservative members throughout the session. Party lines will be maintained this session. What stand they will take after the hard feelings which estimate cutting inevitably brings about matter rests in the hands of the members.

With revenues reported to be down $8,000,000 below the estimated mark and expenditures above the $39,000,000 the 1931-32 deficit is variously forecast as around $5,000,000 to $8,000,000. The hard feelings which estimate cutting inevitably brings about matter rests in the hands of the members.

Endorsing the government first established to around $20,000,000 or $22,000,000.

The estate was settled upon her daughter, Elsie Harriet, real estate and jewels valued at $4,000, and the life income from the estate, after some small bequests to nieces in San Francisco, Oakland and Vancouver. ## SCHOOL BOARD CUTS EXPENSES

Oak Bay Teachers Take Further Cut in Order to Bring 1933 Expenses Down

School expenses in Oak Bay this year will cost approximately $10,000 less than in 1932, according to the estimates for the coming twelve months, which have been submitted by the school board to the council for passing. Since the beginning of the year the members of the board have been holding meetings to cut expenses wherever possible, without harming in any way the educational facilities of the municipality.

Estimated expenditures for 1933 are $91,540.53, compared to $101,256.59 last year. This includes both the ordinary and extraordinary expenses. A further cut in teachers' salaries of seven and a half per cent. has been decided upon, with a few exceptions. It was decided to cut five married teachers and the janitor of the various schools only five per cent. Last year a cut of ten per cent. was made in salaries, making a total of seventeen and one-half per cent.

The extraordinary expenditures for 1933 have been placed at $2,159.90, compared to $3,405.50 last year. The municipality will receive $11,000 less this year for school purposes from the Provincial Department of Education than in 1932. A surplus of $3,100 was carried over from last year, and there is a possibility that the expenses for 1933 may not come up to the estimates, it was explained at a meeting of the board.

ANSWERED REQUESTS

"The branch office dealt with a large number of requests for information from members and public on a wide variety of subjects, a large proportion of those from the public being for Canadian producers of various articles.

"Business conditions have led to the withdrawal of several of our members operating the smaller shops. It is my earnest hope that the branch office find it possible to make fresh application for membership, and that we may also succeed in enrolling a number of other prospective recruits at the present holding back for the same reason.

"I should like to acknowledge the interest which Captain F. C. Brown, chairman of the British Columbia division, has shown in this branch during his term of office. He has attended all our meetings and has given us much useful information and advice.

"I also take the opportunity of adding my tribute to the efforts of my predecessors to the invaluable services and unfailing courtesy and attention shown to our members by Hugh Dalton and other members of the staff of the division office.

"I express the hope that the year 1933 will see at least the beginning of a return to normal conditions and that every one of our members may have the satisfaction of having weathered successfully the difficult times through which we have passed."

Lester Patrick Compares Game of To-day With the Past

Hockey a Much Improved Sport According to Rangers' Head

Goal Keepers Are Much Improved and Have Far Harder Task

AS FAR as Lester Patrick is concerned there is absolutely no comparison between major league hockey today and that of the early playing days—that is as a spectacle. Patrick figures from the attractiveness of the game, not its qualities from a player's point of view. Patrick makes these statements from being in touch with hockey for thirty years both as a player and manager. Patrick on hockey is similar to Madison on boxing, Mack on baseball and Stagg on football. Lester is president of the New York Rangers in the N.H.L. He had the following to say concerning the course of a recent interview at Ottawa:

"There is no comparison—not as far as the spectator is concerned. When I say that I say it with thirty years' experience behind me. That, I think, entitles me to a correct perspective.

"Mind you there is no difference in the players. They were just as good years ago as they are now. They have been better in individual instances, but they weren't as a whole superior in hockey ability and stamina as a whole lot of the old timers will tell you.

"That latter point (the one about stamina) is the old timers' most powerful argument. Well, point to the fact that we use three forward lines, that average a little more than five minutes' play a period. He'll compare that with the 60-minute stretch the old players went through. But they forget the fact that those old teams tried together, that their effectiveness decreased together during the course of those sixty minutes. The excitement was sustained, but the teams in one of those games were practically the same, man for man, at the finish as they were when they started.

"To-day two forward lines tire together, the same way in a short spurt. Two fresh lines pick it up where the first leaves off. They tire together, too. The process is repeated. It seems reasonable that the action is more sustained. There's the forward pass, too, but that's another angle.

"No, there is no comparison, but there is in the goal minders and that's a wide one. The goal minder of to-day has a far tougher task and he's much better than the old timer. He has to be. I don't think there is any question about that."

Yet the man that Patrick picks as the greatest hockey player of the game has ever produced is one that is in his peak around 1907. And there is no question about it as far as he is concerned. He's said it in the past again and adds fresh emphasis with every answer. Listen to him again, on Fred "Cyclone" Taylor, idol of every hockey fan in the country two decades ago:

"No question about it with me. Taylor was my ideal as a hockey player. And that takes in his action, both on and off the ice. Some people won't agree with me on that basis of selection, but that's the way I rate them.

"Taylor had everything in a hockey way. He was spectacular and no one ever had more speed on skates. He had color, too. He was a Babe Ruth in hockey. Off the ice he was a gentleman. They are men of the game, but the enthusiasm is dimmed. A player doing the same feats doesn't make the same impression.

"After that," he said, "they get married, lose their tremendous interest in the game. Other matters are more important. They are men of the game, but the enthusiasm is dimmed. A player doing the same feats doesn't make the same impression.

"Why, the players of to-day are in better condition in training camp, before the season starts than the players of years ago were in the regular schedule. The change in the game calls for that—the forward pass, longer schedule and the competition for places on a team.

"A lot of people will tell you the present players are 'lily white' young gentlemen as compared to the old timers, that they lack the stamina and the tough characteristics of the predecessors. They tell you that about boxers, too.

"I played in those days and I haven't been out of touch with the game in thirty years. Most of it's hokum."

Phenomenal Ball Handling of Visitors Paves Way For Smooth Scoring

SELL-OUT CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

Harmony Girls Score Upset By Defeating Dads Cookies In Preliminary

House of David, whiskered wizards of the cage game, who handle basketballs like vaudeville jugglers, and whose passes are as disconcerting as a cross-eyed flapper's smile, gave Victorians, to the number of about 700, one of the classic exhibitions of the hoop sport seen on a local court in recent history, as they defeated the fast-breaking, hard-working Blue Ribbons, senior city champions, 41 to 31, at Victoria High School gym yesterday evening.

Scoring most of their points on centre pivot plays, they gave a pretty display of basketball, but their floor work took the crowd even more than their point getting.

Their ball-handling ability told the fans the story of their string of victories against the leading teams on the continent, while their showmanship made the exhibition considerably more than a high-class basketball game.

The visitors started slow, finished the first quarter well behind the locals, steamed up to take a 20 to 16 lead at half time, ran riot early in the second half to pile up an unbeatable margin when the Ribbons fell away and then held their lead when the local senior champions went on a scoring bee that brought them out of a twenty-point deficit to finish within ten of the beard boys.

OPENS SCORE

Art Chapman raced through from a centre tip-off to score beneath the basket. He failed to convert his free shot when he was fouled while scoring. Muzz Patrick put the Ribbons back on a pace side shot on a pass from his brother Lynn.

House of David took time out to talk it over.

Slingshot dropped in a free throw for the visitor's first tally. Muzz Patrick netted another under the basket but missed his free throw when he was fouled while scoring.

White scored the Beard's first basket on a centre pivot play. Art Chapman converted two free throws to bring the House of David's lead to 10-0.

Chapman was fouled by White and converted his free throw. He boosted the locals to eleven with a long shot from the side before Muzz Patrick converted two throws to bring the score to 13-0.

Adams brought the Beard's up to even with a basket from close in and Muzz Patrick added three more with a basket and converted a free throw when he was fouled while shooting again.

Buchanan dropped a long floater through the net from centre to give the visitors nine and dribbled the length of the court for another basket to add two more points.

DEVORA-OLSEN BATTLE AGAIN

Two Clever Wrestlers Rematched For Saturday's Card at Pacific Stadium

Saturday evening's wrestling card at the Pacific Stadium will feature a return bout between Dr. Devora, New York, and Herman Olsen, Norway, over eight-minute rounds. A five eight-minute round semi-windup will also be put on, with a local preliminary between Bruce Lowe and Reg. Hopkins. The first bout will start at 8:45 o'clock.

In a bout here last week Dr. Devora defeated Olsen by using his special rope throw and trip. Olsen eventually went right through the ropes, to be knocked out and lose the bout. The pair put on an interesting match, while it lasted, and the return meeting promises to be interesting.

The semi-windup in an attempt to bring back the match between Chicago heavyweight, Harry Demetral, with a good opponent. Definite plans for this bout will be announced later in the week.

Ladysmith Hoopers Play Here To-night

Will Engage Three Victoria Clubs in Lower Island Championship Games

Singers Favored in Senior B Fixture; Play Will Start at 7:30 o'clock

Lower Island basketball play-offs will continue at the Victoria High School gym this evening with three Victoria teams, opposing clubs from Ladysmith.

The first of two game series, total points to count. In the feature tilt Singers, city senior B men's champions, will meet the visitors. The other two fixtures will bring together the Victoria Adams, local junior B boys titleholders and Ladysmith, and Fosters, local intermediate B boys champions and Ladysmith.

The junior game, which is the first on the schedule, will start at 7:30 o'clock with Tommy Macdonald handling the whistle. Through their fine victory over Duncan in a two-game series the Adams are favored to win the competition starting to-night.

Singers are in tip-top condition for their match with the up-island quintette and are counting on advance into the next round. All their players will be on hand, with George and Mike Leeson as guards and Ralph Mitchell, Clarence Slugeth and Butler on the first string forward line.

Fosters displayed their ability by their great comeback to win the city title from the Brits. Bennett and are favored to take Ladysmith into camp.

In his third ring victory here in three weeks, the bald-pated Oklahoma led last night most of his own way, taking the edge in five of the six rounds. Dozier's only round was the fifth, when he put Murdoch down for an instant with a wild right swing to the jaw.

In the semi-final, Don Fraser, 148, Spokane, came back after a surprise knockout in Tacoma last week by Leonard Bennett, Detroit, to win a six-round decision over George Goodrich, 148, St. Louis southpaw.

Gorilla Jones In One-sided Victory

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 22.—Gorilla Jones, Akron, Ohio, negro, recognized by the National Boxing Association as the world middleweight boxing champion, yesterday evening won a decision in ten rounds here from Roy Baker, Anderson, Ind. The negro led all the way.

WRESTLE TO DRAW

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 22.—Tra Derr, 200, of Salt Lake City, and Ted Thye, 195, of Portland, took a fall apiece to win a draw decision in the headline event of a wrestling exhibition here yesterday evening.

SURPRISE WIN

Alexandria, Va., Feb. 22.—Leslie Kennedy, 192, pounder from Butte, Mont., upset the dope on yesterday evening's boxing headlines by winning a six-round decision over "Red" Barry, 190, New York.

WINS DECISION

MAKES EXPLANATION

To the Sports Editor:—Regarding the notice appearing in your paper on a soccer game between Duncan and the Outer Wharf Rangers, stating it was a 2 to 2 draw. I knew nothing of who sent it in, so I let the matter drop. It has been brought to my attention by several people that it had caused no end of trouble—both with the papers and football critics. I emphatically state that neither myself, nor the Victoria and District League, had anything to do with it. The paper score was 5 to 0, for the Rangers. But for two reasons it was declared an exhibition game: first, because of an unqualified referee, and secondly, on account of the death of the junior player in the game preceding the senior one.

Therefore the score was 5 to 0, and record of it was kept.

This letter will no doubt enlighten the thoughts of many, both in Victoria and Duncan.

Finds
Is Pal
Instead of Martyr

The Sweet, Sainly Type of Mother Has Faded Out of the Picture — What the Modern Boy And Girl Want Is a Mother Who Looks As Snappy As the Other Kids' Mothers and Who Is a Good Sport Instead of a Martyr

IT APPEARS that there is a fashion in mothers as there is in frocks and automobiles and dance steps, and that the modern youngsters do not desire the old-fashioned virtues that traditionally appertain to motherhood in their maternal parent. The sweet, saintly, patient, self-sacrificing mother who had no thought but for her children and who sat at home of evenings keeping a lamp burning in the window for their return gets no three glad cheers from them. On the contrary, she is definitely out with them as has of the vintage of the nineties, two-cylinder cars and the fox trot. What they want is a this-year's-model mother, with streamline effects, fresh paint and all the new gadgets in the way of modern ideas and opinions and customs.

It is a queer thing that in a changing world, where everything else has been turned topsy-turvy, we have never altered our ideal of mothers. When an artist paints a mother he always depicts her as an elderly woman, although by the time a woman is forty-five her motherhood is practically over, or at least her active motherhood is, because her children are married and gone about the business of life for themselves.

Also, artists continue to picture mother with her hair parted in the middle and drawn over her ears and as wearing a black silk dress with a plain collar pinned with a cameo brooch, whereas in real life mother dresses as snappy as you please and is the mainstay of the beauty parlor.

Also, we continue to think of mother as a cross between the family goat and the worm that never turns. Mother is supposed to have no thoughts or desires or interests of her own. Her life is all centred on the children. She never has a new frock, but makes over the girls' old ones for herself. She never goes anywhere. She finds all the amusements she desires in staying for her young ones. And she is ALL devotion.

Well, it seems that the boys and girls of to-day have turned this ideal picture of mother to the wall and demanded something newer and more up-to-date. The virtues that we have revered so long make no hits with them. The qualities of motherhood that we have regarded as almost sacred they look upon with scorn and deride as piffle. The don't want a wistful, sad-eyed mother. They want a jolly one who will laugh and play with them.

And perhaps it is because so many women haven't realized that the style in mothers has changed that so many mothers and children fail to click in these perilous times of child-rearing.

Time was, for instance, when every mother thought she was endearing herself to her children by making herself a martyr to them. She waited on them hand and foot. She burned herself to a cinder over the kitchen stove catering to their individual tastes in food, making chocolate cake for Johnny and coconut cake for Mary. She stayed at home and slaved getting up an extra good supper when all the balance of the family went off on a picnic. She sat up all night sewing so that the baby might have hand embroidery on his clothes and so Sally could have seventeen ruffles on her new frock.

Of course, the children never did appreciate mother's sacrifices, but modern children don't want their mothers to make them. They have had enough sportsmanship bred in them to want to play fair and to give mother a run for her money. They don't want a mother who is a washed-out, worked-out, shabby household drudge.

They want a mother who has kept herself young-looking, who has kept herself abreast of the times, who has kept up her social connections, and goes about and does gay and amusing things. They want a mother who knows how to dress and whom they are proud to show off to their friends.

Mother love is another one of the virtues that we felt could not be overdone, and a woman accounted it unto herself for righteousness when she made an altar of her baby's crib and dedicated her life to child-worship.

She sat by little Sammy's bed while he slept. She held his hand when he went out walking. She never let him get out of her sight for an instant if she could help it. She insisted on playing his games with him and kept him away from other companions, and made him promise that he would always love mother best, and she impressed on his youthful mind that mother would die if she was parted from him.

The modern child doesn't want to be loved too much. It fights against being smothered in affection as it would against being drowned in molasses. It doesn't want mother to hold it by the hand and keep it in a perpetual babyhood. It wants to stand on its own feet and be independent. It wants mother love and tenderness, but it wants them in reason, and it wants mother herself to cut the apron strings and let it go when the time comes for it to lead its own life.

Modern children don't want a mother who has no interest except in them. They want mother to be so busy with her own affairs that she won't always be prying into theirs. They want her to get so many letters that her curiosity won't drive her to opening them. They want her to have her own friends, her own amusements, so she won't have to listen in on their telephone calls, or wish herself on them when they go out of an evening, or park herself in the parlor when the girls have dates.

They want an up-to-date mother who knows that customs have changed since she was young, and that they must live in their generation as she lived in hers. They want a mother who is a pal and a companion, who can see things from their point of view instead of one who is in a state of perpetual shock at the modern world.

Above all, they want a mother who has her own full independent life, who will not make them feel that they are renegades if they leave her for an evening alone, or if they marry and set up house for themselves.

Oh, yes, the fashion in mothers has changed. And for the better.

SETTING THE TYPE

Go into the editorial rooms of a newspaper, and you will find people busily at work. Go into a composing room, and you will find just as much stir and bustle.

Linotypes

Instead of sticking typewriters, you will find clicking linotypes. There may be a dozen men running their fingers over the keys of linotypes, thus causing the machine to turn words written on paper into words written on metal.

The linotype operator touches a key, and down falls a small piece of metal with an indented letter on one edge. Another key brings down another letter, and in a short time the words for an entire line are formed. Then the man pulls a lever, and the machine casts the words into a line of type. The machine was given its name because its casts "lines of type."

With a half dozen of a dozen linotype machines, a newspaper plant quickly puts news into type form. Then proofs are taken. A proof is made by pressing paper over the inked surface of the type.

Proof readers look at the proofs to make sure that there has been no mistake in setting the type. If they find errors, they send the proofs back to the linotype operators for correction.

The proof readers are usually careful persons; but in the rush of their work they sometimes let errors slip by. Now and then these errors are amusing. Sometimes they are almost heart-breaking to the person who wrote the story.

Not many months ago, I wrote an article about motoring in the year 1910. In one edition there was an error in the line under the illustration. The line read, "A Motorist of 1910" instead of "A Motorist of 1910," as I had written it. Later I received a letter from a fourteen-year-old reader who said that she did not know much about history, but was sure there
